Discovery & Learn in English

Home stay with local families

Breakfast, dinner, evening entertainment and accommodation are provided in an Irish environment. A picnic lunch is also provided each day for students to eat on visits or excursions. Maximum safety is guaranteed, as students are accompanied to the meeting point each day where teachers are waiting for them. Allergies are carefully catered for.

This program allows students to learn more about the customs and culture as well as building communication and relationships that reinforce the language.

Groups can also be accommodated in hostels or hotels.

Discovery - Experiential Learning

It is a great way to stimulate learning and to expand students' potential.

We offer a wide range of activities that are classified according to their interest: local, regional, national or international.

The activities are mainly related to history, geography, literature, science, nature, and sports, as well as leisure activities that allow you to discover the chosen destination.

English Consolidation, to choose among:

Creative English Course

3 hours/day using the Freinet methodology, working on creative writing and oral expression in video based on experiences at the Discovery courses.

Traditional English Course

3 hours/day using traditional methodology. General English course for teenagers.

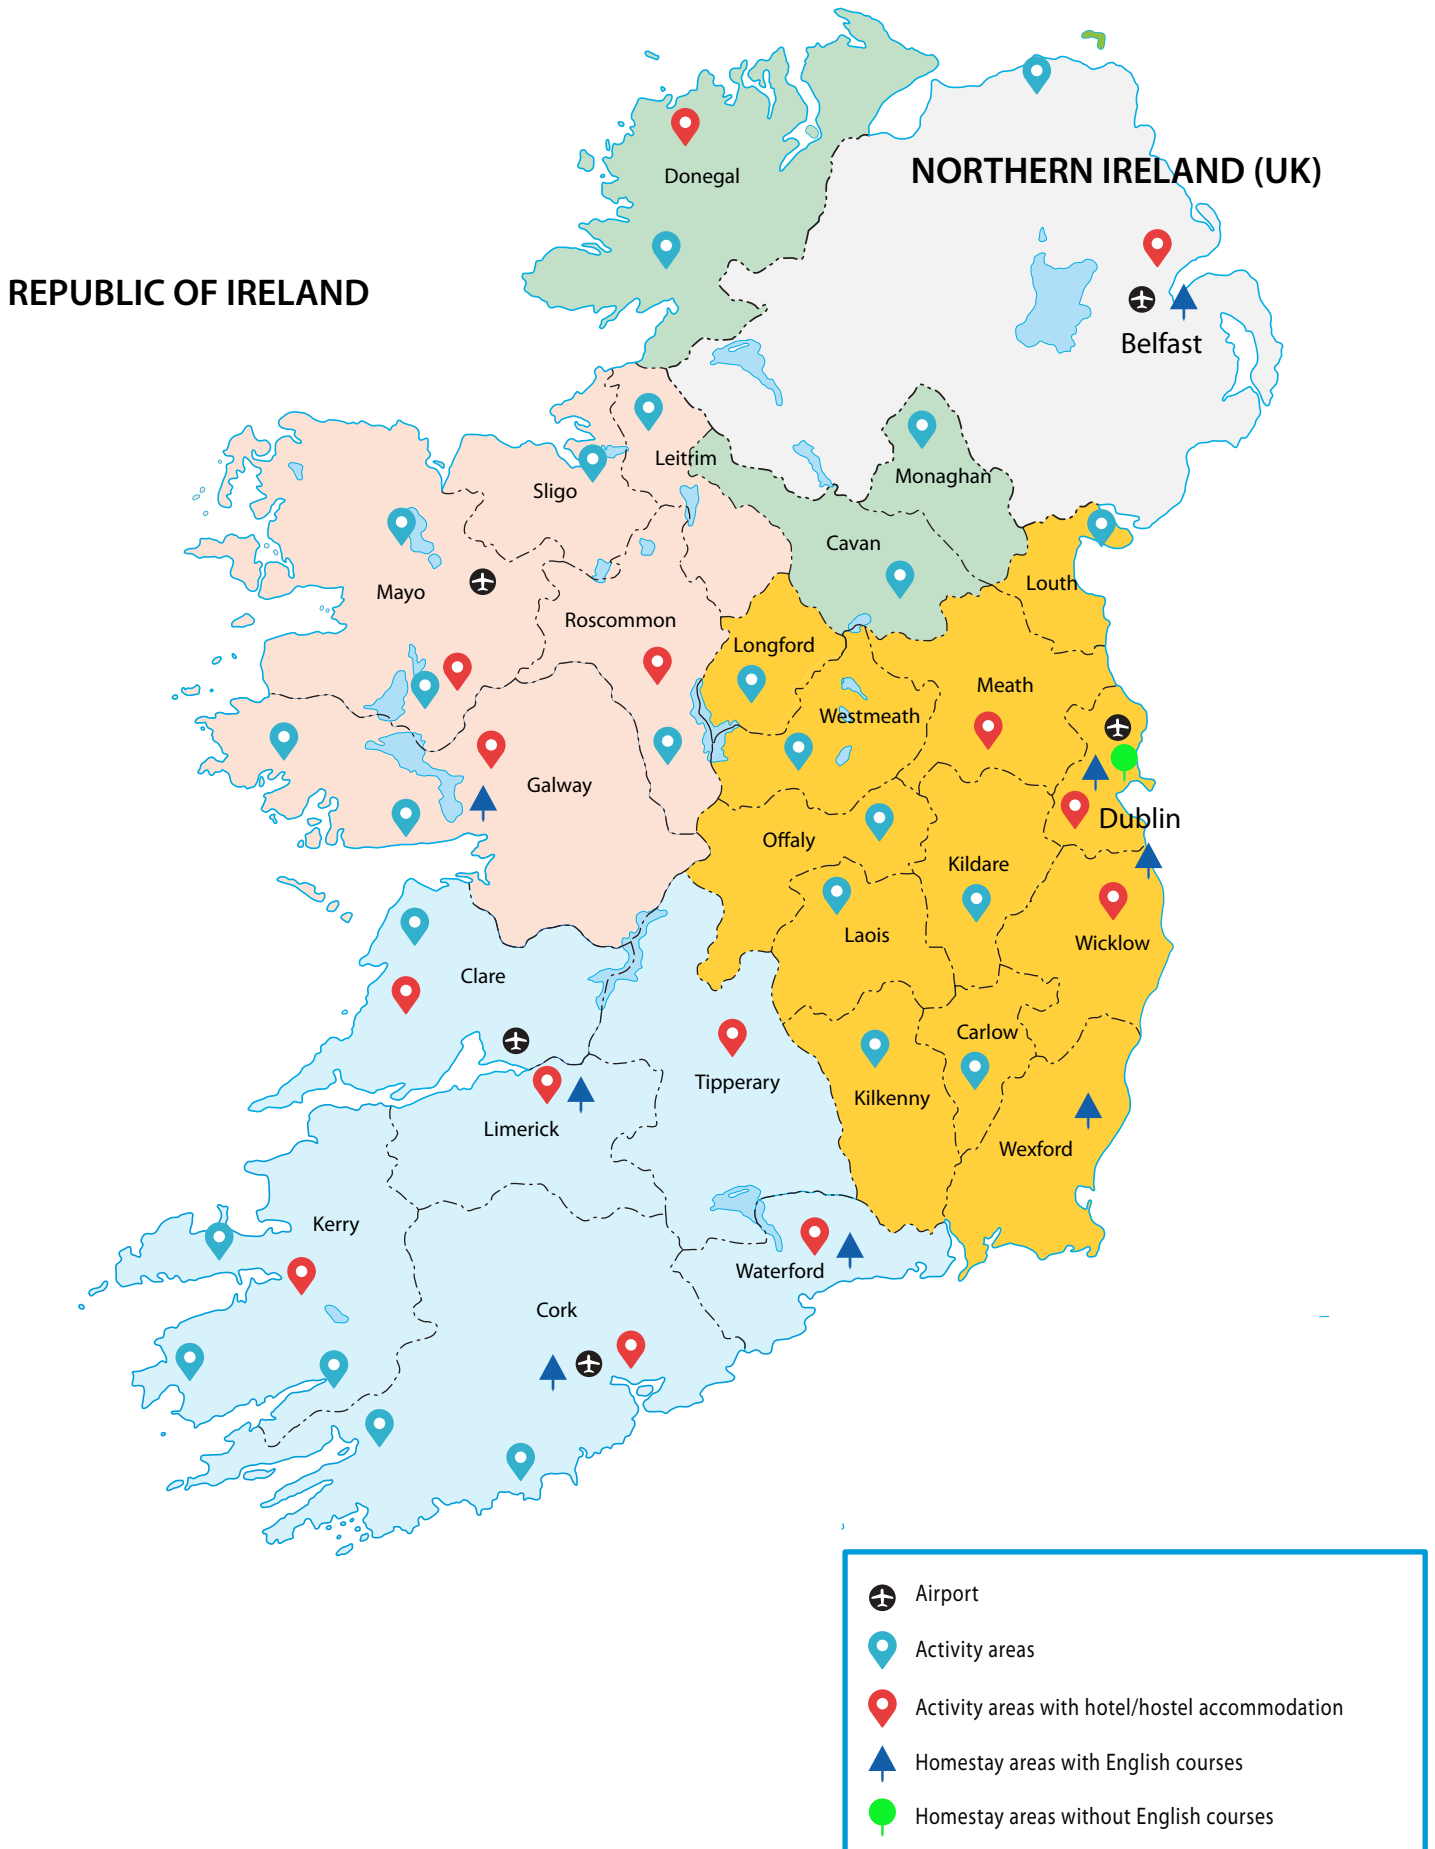

Do it yourself

only classrooms for your project with your teachers.

Hello educational Ireland!

Staying with a host family offers a unique experience that differs from staying in a hotel or youth hostel. It provides more than just accommodation and meals; it allows for personal relationships, language immersion, and a genuine discovery of Irish society.

This experience is invaluable and cannot be replicated in other forms of accommodation.

The families hosting a school group are located in close proximity to each other, forming a nucleus or area, in safe and quiet residential areas on the outskirts of the city to ensure better control of the group.

Each nucleus has a Local Organiser who welcomes the group, assists in locating the students in each house, and handles any unforeseen events that may arise.

This individual is familiar with each family and conducts home visits to ensure that the residence is spacious, well-maintained, and that the occupants speak English proficiently.

Families may consist of a married or unmarried couple with children, a single parent with children, a childless couple, or a single woman.

Typically, 2, 3, or 4 students are assigned to each family, with each student occupying a single bed. Most schools prefer accommodating three students per family, as this arrangement is usually beneficial to students.

In Ireland, we do not discriminate on the basis of race or culture.

All of our families are Irish and will communicate with the students in English.

The meeting points where students meet their teachers each day are typically located near public transport stops.

In some areas, each family will take their students by car, bus or on foot to and from the meeting point each morning and afternoon. In the rest of the areas, families only accompany students on the first and last day. We have several transportation options for the days in between. Contact us.

Meeting times are typically at 08:00 and 19:00, but may vary slightly depending on the location or scheduled activities.

Groups are typically provided with full board accommodation, which includes breakfast, packed lunch, and dinner with the host family.

Breakfast usually consists of cereal or toast with a hot drink or juice. The packed lunch typically includes two sandwiches, a bag of chips, a piece of fruit, a chocolate bar or biscuit, and a water or soft drink.

Dinner is a cooked meal, and students will be served a different dish each evening, along with a dessert.

Students are not permitted to select their own dish. If they do not wish to eat the meal on offer, there will be no alternative unless this has been discussed with the family beforehand.

Students with special dietary requirements, such as vegetarian, nut allergies, or gluten-free, must inform us in advance so that we can accommodate their needs.

In the evenings, students can choose to either stay in their bedroom or join the family in the living room to immerse themselves in the local culture and practice the language. We ensure that families provide conversation for students and encourage both parties to participate.

Students are expected to keep their rooms clean and tidy during their stay and to be polite and respectful.

They are not allowed to leave their homes at night.

To ensure full immersion, teachers will stay in separate accommodations without students. Alternatively, they may stay in a hotel.

Youth Hostels

The second type of accommodations that most favour this experience are youth hostels, whose main characteristics are:

- Most of them are centrally located and renovated.
- Most of them offer catering services and leisure areas in the same building.
- The rooms are ALWAYS assigned exclusively to the group.
- Students are distributed in multiple rooms and teachers in twin or single rooms.
- Boys and girls are placed in separate rooms.
- Most of the rooms have their own bathroom (WC, washbasin and showers).
- Depending on the number of people in the group and how far in advance the booking is made, we can get exclusive use of all or part of the lodging.

Breakfast is normally available in all the accommodations, and most of them also offer dinner, lunch and take-away meals to make the most of the day.

Special diets for vegetarians, vegans, coeliacs and others are normally catered for in all establishments.

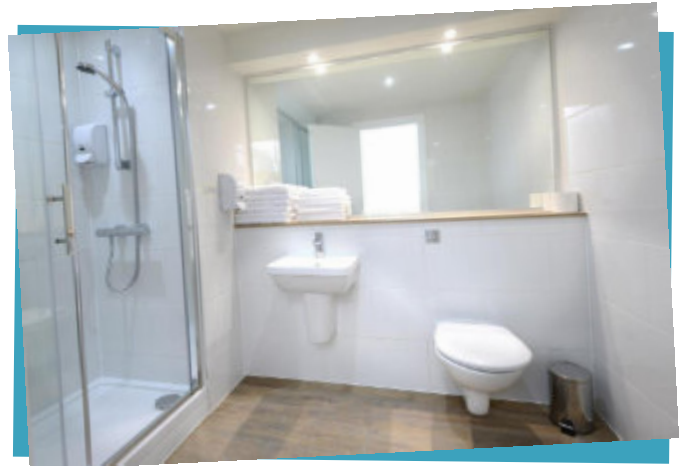

Hotels for school groups

Groups not wishing to stay in youth hostels can stay in hotels.

We have a wide range of hotels available, with different locations and categories to suit all budgets.

Half and full board can be booked accordingly to the group's needs.

CLIL methodology (content and language integrated learning)

The CLIL methodology offers multiple advantages by combining content learning with the development of language skills in a foreign language. It promotes meaningful learning by using language as a tool to explore subjects, improving students' motivation and interest. It develops higher-level cognitive skills, such as analysis and problem-solving, and strengthens communicative competence, as students use the language in real-life contexts.

These workshops, often organised by Irish Institutions and organisations, are designed for Irish students but can also be attended by foreign students who follow a Bilingual Curriculum and are familiar with the topics covered in the activities.

Experiential Learning with Curricular CLIL Games in Dublin

Some Irish school curriculum contents may not be relevant to foreign pupils due to their local or regional nature, unfamiliarity, or being developed for a different age group. Additionally, some contents may not be adequately adapted to the foreign pupils' level of English.

In Dublin Denatravel has adapted some Irish curriculum content.

The aim is to teach foreign students a range of subjects, (including geography, history, economics, science, mathematics and physics), using a specific approach to English suitable for foreign teenagers. This is achieved through the use of active and creative teaching methods, the training of local and international teaching staff and the creation of innovative and exclusive teaching materials.

English Learning with Freinet Methodology

In 'Freinet Free Expression', English teachers focus on creative writing and speaking in four sequential phases. The first phase is conducted outdoors in the morning, followed by three indoor phases in the afternoon.

A

Discovery Project

Outdoor cultural experiences designed to stimulate language learning.

Group members should capture the most exciting moments and upload them online.

B

Brainstorming

In teams and in the classroom.

After the selection of the two best photos from the group, each student must orally produce a complete sentence about what the image suggests to them on the basis of their experience.

C

Creative Writing

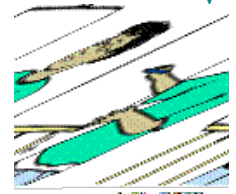

In teams and in the classroom.

The teacher makes the appropriate corrections orally and writes each creative sentence on the blackboard, using the opportunity to introduce the grammatical or writing elements. In this way, the whole group participates in the creation of a collective text that is grammatically correct.

D

Public Speaking

In teams and in the classroom

Each correct creative text is practiced individually so that it is pronounced correctly and can be presented in public.

Each student's oral presentations are recorded in order to produce a video blog which will be shown on the last last day.

English Learning with traditional Methodology

On the first day, students take a placement test to determine their class group.

These classes are designed to help students focus on the 4 basic skills of the language: reading comprehension, writing, listening comprehension and speaking. They expand their vocabulary, improve their pronunciation and understand grammar better in order to be more accurate in both spoken and written language.

Students work individually or in small groups to complete the exercises. To improve oral communication, debates, pronunciation lessons and role-plays are provided to help students improve their fluency.

Do it yourself

In this option we rent you the required classrooms so that the school's teachers can develop their own English course or multidisciplinary educational program with their students

ORGANISATIONAL DEADLINES

Although we are prepared to organise tailor-made trips at short notice, it is advisable to start getting in touch with Denatravel at least 6 months prior to travelling dates in order to have access to good value flights and a wide range of accommodation and activities.

It is a good idea to have decided whether or not you are going to go on a language trip during the previous school year (the programme, approximate age and number of students, number of accompanying teachers and almost definite price), in order to reserve services and inform the parents before the summer or as soon as the school year starts in September.

INFORMATION

Get in touch with us and we will help you to choose the programme that is ideal for you.

We will show you the workbooks and tables used in our creative experiences and we will define your interests and priorities to create a tailored programme without any obligation from your side.
